

Abandoned and Unclaimed Property

Exemption Analysis and Liability Reduction

The Challenge with Abandoned and Unclaimed Property (AUP) Exemptions

- More than 75 deductions and exemptions are allowable in certain industries.
- Few unclaimed property holders are aware of each and every deduction and statutory exemption for which they qualify.
- Many holders are intimidated to apply for deductions due to the complex process.
- As a result, holders are often unaware or risk-averse to taking state allowable deductions and exemptions.

Ryan Can Help

- Ryan's proprietary Deduction Analysis Tool (DAT) identifies bottom line savings—within a few days—with minimal disruption to your business.
- DAT quickly reviews millions of rows of data, concurrently identifying unclaimed property records against more than 75 allowable deductions and statutory exemptions.
- DAT's deductions have been tested and approved during past Voluntary Disclosure Agreements (VDAs) and state audits.
- The DAT application reviews each client-held undischarged liability down to the penny.
- DAT brings value to high-volume transaction environments where manual review of each record below a certain threshold amount is cost prohibitive, yet adds up through unresolved small accounts payable (AP) and accounts receivable (AR) credit balance amounts.
- With DAT, Ryan clients also benefit from decreased maintenance and record-holding costs by hastening the removal of liabilities.
- In addition to DAT, Ryan has ample experience reclaiming exempt property that an AUP holder may have erroneously remitted through state filings.
