

Healthcare Insurance Disbursements Recovery Services

Healthcare insurance disbursements to hospitals, facilities, providers, and members involve extremely complex processes handled by numerous systems and internal departments. Even with the proper internal controls and processes to catch transactional errors, many go undetected or partially corrected, resulting in errors such as:

- | | |
|--|---|
| ➤ Duplicate payments | ➤ Reprocessed claims and re-issued checks |
| ➤ Erroneous payments to the wrong provider or address | ➤ Original checks not cashed, causing over reporting of outstanding uncashed checks |
| ➤ Incorrect payee on non-participants vs. participants | ➤ Claims that should have been voided but weren't |

Ryan's healthcare insurance disbursements recovery services ensure that your organization identifies transaction errors and recovers lost funds. Our commitment to excellence and utilization of sophisticated technology ensure that we're more thorough, efficient, and effective than our competitors. We don't simply review our clients' transactions for saving opportunities; we scour them. We're also focused on their overall financial performance—identifying the root cause of the transaction errors we uncover and providing innovative solutions and recommendations to mitigate and stop the leakage. We will review and recover erroneous disbursements resulting from:

Current outstanding checks

If a transaction error is not corrected and voided properly, the outstanding check will remain in the check register as "outstanding" for as long as three years. Depending on state escheatment compliance laws, these items will be remitted to the state's abandoned property unit.

Items previously escheated to the states in error

We will compile the justification documentation needed to establish that the item escheated was an error. A refund request is submitted to the state's unclaimed property division who, in return, will issue a refund check to the insurance company.

Duplicate payments to providers, facilities, or members

If both checks were cashed, we will collect on the incorrect payee by providing documentation showing an incorrect payment.

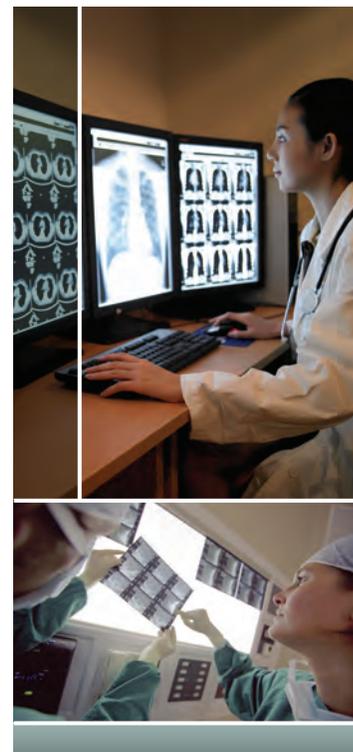

Ryan is independent from your savings and recovery process; therefore, all compliance issues are confidential. Our healthcare insurance disbursements recovery solution requires no upfront capital investment because our fee is based on performance and results for our clients.
